

Advisor: Rachel Griffith

The past two blocks have gone smoothly at Scattergood. Students are busy with studying and socializing. The Scattergood community has been trying out a new advisor/advisee meeting time, by having lunch together as a group on Tuesdays. They have time to sit and chat or do whatever they want. Our advisee group has chosen to go to my apartment and watch 40 minutes of a movie while they eat. We end up having short conversations about random things instead of longer in-depth conversations. I feel that this has helped me to feel much more connected to them in a friend-like way, but I don't know as much about what is going on in their lives now. My goal for the next block is to devote more time to each advisee individually, so that I can talk with them more about their lives.

Patty has been doing wonderfully these past few blocks. She seems to be enjoying classes and community life as well. She is a very open person, willing to share with her friends and others as well. Patty has been doing very well in her classes, and is especially excited about her drawing class.

As for the dorm, she is doing wonderfully as usual. The only complaints come when she is giggling loudly late at night, but even this habit has been lessened in the past few weeks. Patty was on lunch clean up this past block, and got great feedback from her crew supervisor. Patty, you are a wonderful human being and I love having you as an advisee. If there is anything you need, please don't hesitate to ask.

Not an official document